March's News from Thailand

Here we go again, another eventful month has past. This last week has been hectic. We had our new staff member start working as of the first of March. Her name is Um and she is great. She has provided Amy, Arlang, and Jinda with a much needed rest during the week. Just yesterday Arlang and Jinda went on a "date" for the first time in a very long time. Amy is eagerly looking forward to Friday and Saturday as her days off.

We also would like to share some of our plans for 2010. We have had contact with the prison in Chiang Rai and they would like us to take Tawan in May (when he will be 1 year and 6 months) and we will be welcoming in October a little girl

Mooya (age 2 as of October, 2010). We have talked to their mothers several times and they would like us to help them raise their children in their absence. This is a tremendous undertaking for our small foundation but we work for a very big God and no task is to impossible for him, not even three two year olds (Brame included). It is an exciting time to be a part of CFPM. Just as in each of our lives God asks us to grow daily, that is our prayer here in Northern Thailand. This year, 2010 will certainly stretch us further than we have ever been before but He is faithful and we are wanting our trust to be in Him and not how much of a reserve we have in the bank account. Thank you all for your continued prayers and financial support. We love you all and I will see you all soon.

Speaking of seeing you all soon...I will be returning to the states April 23rd. Please send me an email or contact my parents if you have time to have lunch or coffee. I would love to see you all. Also, be thinking about any potential contacts you have regarding a speaking engagement I or someone part of the CFPM team might give while I am home. Can't wait to see you all!

Summer has begun here in Thailand...well almost anyway. All the kids but David have final tests today. David's are on Thursday and Friday so he is chilling at the house with me this afternoon watching a new Superman and Batman DVD while I write this newsletter. Let me tell you...you have never watched Superman until you watched Superman speaking Thai! It cracks me up. David is sure enjoying it. I wish I could take a pic of him now...he is sitting on the edge of his seat glued to the tube. Of course, what 10 year old doesn't love Superman???

Ryan's Ministry From Thailand

My local Bible study donated supplies (seen here with Joanna Couric and Meredith Hart) for Tawan and Mooya in the prison. Our next project is cribs for the new kid-dos!

Arlang honored me like I have never been before when he gave me a piece of land on his mountain. Its pretty narrow but the view is amazing. Coming soon...Caesar Ryan's Palace Hotel and Casino!!! Hey...at least you lose your money for a good cause. (Below are all pictures from "Children's Day" in Thailand.)

Who doesn't love waiting in a long line to have 30 seconds of fun???
